

an intensive heat dissipation measure can be easily taken on the rear of the reflector.

5. According to the present invention, a glass reflector suitable for a projector in which the heat resistance is high and the reflection accuracy is superior and which is inexpensive and a manufacturing method for it can be obtained.